WHY TEETH DECAY

At the beginning of the last war the regulations regarding teeth were so strict that I had a sergeant examine the mouths of the recruits before they were inspected by the medical officer. The simplest requirement was that the man must have one upper motar (grinding) tooth immediately above one lawer grinding tooth, on one side of his mouth, yet about?

Dr. Barton meet this requirement.

In this war medical officers are finding just as many men with infected or missing teeth as in the last war, but with an adequate dental corps men are taken into the army and the defects corrected.

What causes decay of teeth? Has the cause ever been discovered?

What causes decay of teeth? Has the cause ever been discovered?

the cause ever been discovered?

In the Journal of the American Dental Association, Robert G. Kesel.

D.D.S., M.S., Chicago, states that 237 investigators report that dental decay begins with the destruction of the enamel by acid. This is not a new idea as a writer in A.D. 1830 stated that decay of teeth was due to decomposed food and acid moisture.

There appear to be two factors in tooth decay, the exciting or immediate cause, and the predisposing or underlying cause.

The immediate or exciting factors are organisms on the tooth surface capable of destroying tooth substances, and material (food particles clinging to the teeth) which are converted into substances harmful to the tooth. Without the organisms and tooth particles there likely would be no decay.

Yet, Dr. Kesel points out tithes

Yet, Dr. Kesel points out "that all living individuals have organisms on the tooth surfaces and most of them, at times, have upon their teeth materials that could form ac-id." Why then do not all teeth decay?

Teeth do not decay in some indi-viduals despite the presence of or-ganisms and acid forming material on the teeth, because these individ-uals do not have the predisposing or underlying conditions that enable the organisms and acid-forming materi-als to start the process of decay.

Six Pointers on Neurosis Prevention

While the curing of mental all-ments has reached the highest point in history, nevertheless it must be remembered that many mental cases are not cured by our present methods including the shock treatment.

Why should there not be some method of preventing the development of mental ailments or preventing those with a tendency toward mental ailments becoming mental patients?

ward mental ailments becoming mental patients?
Today we see smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, pernicious anemia, typhoid fever, dinbetes prevented or controlled. Why cannot mental ailments be prevented, particularly in the young, just as diphtheria and scarlet fever are prevented?

In an article is Bester No.

In an article in Boston Number of the Medical Clinics of North Ameri-ca, Dr. Merrill Moore, in pointing out what psychiatry can do to prevent neurosis-patients whose odd behavior symptoms are not due to any organic cause, no change in brain structure—says;

1. Parents should not overexcite their children.

2 Children should be taught to relax and to concentrate (put their minds intently on a subject) when necessary.

Parents should remember that children are not their playthings to be poked and tossed about.

Children are assets; raising them is a serious business.

5. Parents should give their children a sense of security in the child's own small world.

6. All along the production line the parent should guide the child and try not to let him go off the track of normal development. For example, it is important for a boy (or girl) to keep shreast of his group and be able to do what his friends one download in school, play-ground, or elsewhere even if a little extra conclusing in necessary. This the extra coaching is necessary. This prevents an inferiority complex. If a child done not hold his own in his own world, he may allow off on the sidelines and become critical or destructive. He may then more easily become a sourcelle or an alcoholic.

Thomas Bruffey died at his home near Lobelia Wednesday, June 2, 1943. Mr. Bruffey was born June 13, 1862. On March 5, 1830, he was united in marriage to Miss Lucy Peck, and they became the parents of five children, as follows: Carl Bruffey of Washington, D. C., Cecil, Glenn and Ross Bruffey, of Baltimore, and another son who died in infancy. The deceased also had four sisters, Mrs. Lysle Whiting of Rensick, Mrs. Barnett Grimes and Mrs. Byd Shiffler of Hillsboro and Mrs. Ida Sarver, of Roanoke, Va.

Mr. Bruffey will be greatly missed in his community. He taught school for 35 years, and was justice of the peace for several years. He also served two terms as sheriff of the county. When a young boy, he united with the church and was a diligent worker in it all of his life thereafter.

The esteem in which he was held by those everywhere who had known him was demonstrated when the largest crowd ever to attend a funeral in his home section came to pay their last tribute of respect to him. After the Nazis had tested the Reds' mettle on four separate sectors from Veliki Luki on the north to the Caucasus on the south, the Russians themselves provided the fireworks by hurling 150,000 infantry and tank men in a vast assault and tank men in a vast assault against the Axis Kuban lines in the Caucasus.

While early Russian accounts of this movement were characteristi-cally laconic, a Berlin radio dispatch conceded that the first Russian waves had thrust the German lines hack more than a mile on the Kuban front protecting Novorossisk and added that Nazi defenses were taking a terrific battering everywhere along their last remaining Caucasus feethold. Berlin said the Reds em-played 19 divisions, at least 170 tanks, planes and strong artillery

Whether this Russian move heralded the long-awaited summer battle was still a matter of conjecture among observers.

CANCER DELAY

Just as we are congretulating ourmaking great headway not only in America but throughout the world, it comes as a shock that America but throughout the work, it cancer authorities state that "the public education on the cancer problem is inadequate and ineffective." We have naturally been thinking that as more people now live to the cancer age, this is the cause of the increase of cancer.

Dr. Barton which is true to a great extent. However, that more could and should be done, in fact is absolutely necessary, if we are to reduce the cancer death rate, is more knowledge of cancer. Thus the alogan "Fight Can-death rate, is more knowledge of cancer. Thus the slogan "Fight Can-cer with Knowledge" is timely. That knowledge of cancer is greatly needed is the statement in the Journal of the American Medical Association, by Drs. Charles R. Harms, Jules A. Plant and Ashley W. Cughterson, New Haven, Conn.

W. Cughterson, New Haven, Conn.
In the study of the causes of delay in obtaining treatment by 155 patients, it was found that only about one-fourth of the patients had read about cancer and that all but two of these had obtained their information from newspapers and popular magazines. Only two admitted reading public health pamphlets.

"Delay in the diagnosis and treatment of cancer is one of the most important factors in the failure to obtain results by the methods now available—radium, X-rays and surgery."

What is considered delay insofar as the patient and physician are concerned?

This depends to some extent on This depends to some extent on location of the cancer, as a cancer on the skin or where it can be seen easily will not take as long to recognize as cancer inside the body.

Salt Reduction Aid In Meniere's Disease

A recent valuable discovery is that most cases of Meniere's disease—hard of hearing, head noises, dizziness, nausea and vomiting—are due to "waterlogging" or swelling of a part of the hearing system. By cutting down on liquids and salty foods most of these cases obtain relief from these symptoms.

Just what causes this swelling on

Just what causes this swelling or waterlogging in the ear is not defi-nitely known. Dr. W. E. Grove, Milwaukee, in Annals of Ear, Nose and Throat, suggests that the swell-ing may be due to allergy—sensi-tiveness to foods or other substances —just as swelling occurs in other tis-sues due to allergy. Swelling may sues due to allergy. Swelling may also be due to lack of certain vita-mins in the food, or to the lack of a sufficient amount of some gland ex-tract in the system.

It is fortunate that while the search for the cause of these symptoms con-tinues, so much relief can be ob-tained by the medical treatment by histamine and by avoiding foods rich in salt.

Foods to avoid because they contain too much salt are: salted butter, ordinary bread, crackers, eggs, milk, spinach, carrots, oatmeal and all corned, pickled, smoked or salt-

To Stem Inflation

From the obscurity in which his retirement had shrouded him, Leon Henderson, former OPA director, emerged to warn the nation that "another set of dikes" is needed to dam what he called the relief tide.

There are of course some cases where the histamine and food treat-ment gives little or no relief. What can be done for these cases because the symptoms are distressing and weakeningt

Surgery is now used where medi-cal and diet treatment fail, or for those who for economic or other reasons cannot be kept on a super-co vised treatment for a long time and for patients whose occupation inter-feres with obtaining benefit from medical or diet treatment because of carelessness in following a pre-scribed routine.

Washington Digest Army's Greatest Hazard? It's Question of Morale

Armed Services Do Everything Possible to Protect Mental Health of Servicemen; Parents Advised to Cooperate.

By BAUKHAGE

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, | Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C.
What's the greatest barard your boy must meet when he joins the srmy? Not the weapon of the enemy. We know only a very thy percentage of these who don the uniform succumb to that.
It's the mental hazard.
Take it from a man who met it and who, since, has read the alarming figures which show the war's (nny war's) mental casualties.
And to meet that mental hazard you need just one thing—mental health.

Let me quote a few words on the subject of morale from one of the books which the army and the navy and the wise ones in other professions say is a wonderful protection for the mental health of the boy who joins the army.

That book is paper bound. It costs 35 cents. It is called "Our Armed Forces." It has a lot of pictures in it and a lot of sound sense. It is printed by the presses of the Infantry Journal, 1115 17th street, Washington, D. C. It is not sold for profit.

And here is what it says on the subject of morale. (As I say on the subject of morale. (As I say on the sair, "I'm quoting"):

"Morale is an important quality of citizenship in the crises of peace, when the internal security of the nation is threatened. It is even more important in war, when the very existence of the nation hangs in the balance. It is, therefore, an objective of army and navy leadership to build a high degree of morale in the soldier and sailor.

About Hebit.

About Habits

"The state of mind we call morale has its roots in long-established hab-its of thinking and acting. A student seated alone in his room, bent seseated alone in his room, bent seriously over his books, may be tackling his studies with a high degree of morale. He believes what he is doing is worth while. He is determined to overcome whatever difficulties the subject matter offers. He works with a self urge. He gives up the picture show and the ball game if doing so is necessary for success. If doing so is necessary for success. He has confidence in his ability to acquire the knowledge and skill he is seeking. In the undertaking of hundreds of similar duties in the ordinary routine of living is created the intangible virtue called morale. The young man who enters the armed services may therefore bring with him the basis for the morale upon which his success as a soldier and the ultimate victory of our na-tion so greatly depend.

"While morale has its roots in the character of the individual and his character of the individual and his past experience, it may be greatly strengthened by association and close co-operation with others who are engaged in the same enterprise. Morale is contagious. It is a quality easily transmitted from one person to another. The servicement ity easily transmitted from one person to another. The serviceman receives his uniform. It is the symbol of his dedication. With it he becomes part of the great tradition. Behind him into history is a long line of those who have been so dedicated. The men who walked barefoot in the snow at Valley Forge. The Green Mountain boys with Ethan Allen, thundering at the gates of Ticonderoga. Calm men in the gun turrets at Manila Bay. Marines at Guadalcanal . . . Chateau Thierry . . . Tripoli. Helmeted filers of a torpedo squadron at Midway. Through the procession of heroes, still bright as it recedes into distant time, has been handed down the great tradition."

Environment

Now when Johnny Doughboy joins up, he changes his habits of life as much as Christopher Columbus carriage and later the would have to change his if he came swept to meet milady do would have to change his if he came back and took a job managing a big, modern corporation, or riding herd on a bunch of long-horns or bossing a section gang. It would be tough for Chris to adapt himself to his environment. If he couldn't manage it, he would probably go haywire and blow his top. The dinosaur and some of his fellow prehistorics who couldn't adjust themselves to their environment retired permanently to positions in museums. Man, some men that is, adjusted. They took the ice age, the floods and the families in their stride and here they are chiling and ahing at the dead.

Getting ready to perform his final and greatest feat, the local amateur magician stepped out to the edge of the platform and said:

"For the purpose of my next trick, which I assure you will be a good one, will some gentleman in the audience kindly lend me his hat? Will you, sir?" he added persuasively to a man in the front row.

But the man in question clutched his hat firmly with both hands and abook his head.

"I will not," he retorted indig-nantly, "not until you return the lawnmower you borrowed last summer."

So Goes the Old Adage

To save time and hosiery, just rub paraffin on the imide of the toes of your stockings. You will have no darning to do for a long time and one application lasts through many launderings.

An old orange wood stick from your manicure bit will be found heipful to get at the dirt in the corners when washing windows or

To make sterilized bandages at home, tear a clean old sheet into strips, roll them and then place in an airlight jar. Suspend the jar in water and allew the water to become boiling hot for several minutes.

To lengthen the service of a broom, as it wears down, cut I or 2 rows of the stitching.

Dirty clothespins leave their mark on otherwise clean clothes, and once in, the dirt is difficult to remove. Tub pins in warm, soapy water once a month, dry them in the sun and store them in a spotlessly clean bag from washday to washday. They deserve good care especially in wartime.

Taking Politics Out Of War

Several weeks ago, to take politics Several weeks ago, to take politics out of the way, Chairman Harrison E. Spangler, of the Republican Na-turnal Committee, suggested that President Rousevelt declare himself out of the race and devote his entire time to winning the war. Mr. Spangler's proposal came as one New Dealer after another was pushing the President's fourth term candidacy.

Immediately the bureaucrats bemight accept the soundness of Mr. Spangler's proposal. They found serunteen reasons why their jobs should not be endangered. But now comes Chairman Spangler again with clear-gut reasoning to support his

County Agricultural Agent

It at times, at least, seems a wastof time to list definite agricultural or time to not definite agricultural practices in a newspaper, as the most of us stop reading when we get to definite facts and figures. However, in traveling over the county it arems necessary to bring certain facts to the attention of as many people as possible. Quite a few people seem to be using lime alone for both insect and disease control on potatoes beans, tomatoes and cucumbers. Lime as no value at all as an insecticide, It may in rare instances act as a re pellent. It is not very efficient in the control of disease. Lime in any form should not be used on cucumbers. Following are the general in-sect and disease control recommends tions for some of the more important rarden crops: Beans—Dust, rotenone for beetles and 20-20-60 dust for both diseases and insects. Sprays, calcium arsen-ate for insects and 4-4-50 bordeaux with calcium arsenate added for both diseases and insects. Beans should not be worked with when foliage is Potntoes-Insects, lead arsenate or

THE STORY SO PAIL: The story of their part in the battle for the Philliphres is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 1. They are Lieut, John Bulheley (now Lieuten ant Commander), equadron commander Lieut, B. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Alers and George E. Cox Jr. Manila has fallen, and our naval hase at Cavite is gone. Lieut, Kelly has been in a hospital on Corresider, but has finally persunded the dector or lease him. He has gone out on patrol. They have broken up a Japlanting party and have now come alongside a landing barge which has surrendered after a heavy barrage.

"Then I began rummaging around in that sludge for papers, brief cases and knapsacks. I collected, among other things, the muster list of the landing party and their operations plan, before the boat sank beneath me—Kelly pulled me into his boat as the barge sank. as the barge sank.

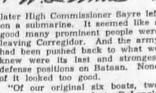

"The ambulance doctor, glancing at them, said he thought the Jap officer would pull through, but that there wasn't much chance for the little private.

"You never know when you're go ing to run into something," said Bulkeley. "A couple of nights lat-er, I was riding the 41 boat on routine patrol off the west coast of Bataan. When we began to get near to Biniptican Point, the entrance to Subje. we cut it down to one en-Subic, we cut it down to one en-gine, to make the least possible noise. Just before ten o'clock, I spotted a Jap ship which seemed to be lying to, near shore. We called general quarters and began sneak-ing up obser-still using only one general quarters and began sneaking up on her—still using only one engine until we got within about twenty-five hundred yards. Then we gave everything the gun and roared in—but almost into a trap. Because the Japs had prepared a little welcome for us, and this ship was seemingly the bait to a trap—they had floating entanglements and wires in the water which might foul our propellers and leave us a dead target for their batteries. We saw them just in time, and now we saw them just in time, and now we saw they were trying to unbait the trap —because that big ship was showing a wake, trying to get under way.

"At a thousand yards we fired our first torpedo, and it had hardly hit the water before the Jap ship opened up on us with a pom-pom. They'd the water before the Jap ship opened up on us with a pom-pom. They'd been playing possum, waiting for us. But what the hell—we wanted to be sure we'd stolen the bait from the trap, so we went right on in, ahead of our own torpedo, and let her have another at four hundred yards. Then I gave hard rudder and as we turned abeam of her, we sprayed her decks with the 50's, and every man on board picked up a rifle and began pumping at her—just for the hell of it—and the Japs were dishing it right back, but not for many seconds. Because all of for many seconds. for many seconds. Because all of a sudden—Bam! It was our first tora sudden—Bam! It was our first tor-peds striking home, and pieces of wreckage fell in the water all around us. The explosion gave us our first clear look at her. She was—or had been until then—a modern, stream-lined 6,000-ton auxiliary aircraft car-

"But the Japs weren't through with us. A battery of about half a daser Joneh guns opened up on un from the shore—by the flashes we could see they were pumping it to up ser fast as they could load, and they seriously took rear minds off our colors from the seriousles. "Of our original six boats, two had already been lost, DeLong's over Subic Bay, and the 33 boat while I was in the hospital—she'd been going full speed ahead investigating what looked at night like the feather of a Japanese submarine's periscope, only it turned out to be a wave breaking over a little submerged and uncharted coral reef."

"We came close to losing the 32 boat about that time," said Bulkeley. "DeLong and I were riding her up for screen goat slaughter-house, a reformed goat slaughter-h wave breaking over a little submerged and uncharted coral reef,"

"Why had she been firing near Bagac Bay? We learned that later. She was a 7,000-ton Jap cruiser covering a Jap landing party with her guns. We didn't know we'd broken up this party at the time. Following her, we seemed to be gaining because she had apparently slowed down, maybe thinking she had lost us. We were closing on her fast now, when suddenly a huge big searchlight came on, holding us directly in its beam, and a few seconds later two 6-inch shells came screaming over, landing just ahead of the with a terrific scripts and onds later two 6-inch shells came screaming over, landing just ahead of us with a terrific explosion and waterspout. Her searchlight was blinding us and we could only head directly into it, firing the starboard torpedo at that light at about four thousand yards' range. There was snother flash of 6-inch guns from the cruiser, and this salvo dropped much closer to us—haddy two humthe cruiser, and this salvo dropped much closer to us—hardly two hun-dred yards ahead. A third two-gun salvo landed just astern of us, and then we let her have the port tor-pedo, figuring the range at a little over three thousand yards.

"Now we were empty, and the problem was to dodge that blinding searchight. Before we veered off to the east, we tried to douse it with spray of 50-csliber bullets, but they did no good. We could hardly see where our tracers went for the glare. We could see now she was chasing where our tracers went for the glare. We could see now she was chasing as, firing salvore in pairs from her four 6-loch guns, when suddenly there was a doll boom, and we could see debris and erechage sailing up through that searchight's beam. "Our plan for making a run for China when our gas was almost gone still stood, and Bulkeley had got hold of some landing-force gear which we knew might be useful on the Chinese coast if we missed connections with our Chungking friends and had to fight our way through the Japs. So we began drilling our men in landing-force procedure.

"This got them very curious. They knew our gas was running out, and we had almost no more torpedoes except the ones which were in the boats. So we told them we were thinking of going south to join the Moros if Bataan fell, and it satisfied them for a while. We let only two other persons in on the secret—Clark Lee and Nat Floyd, newspaper correspondents who had been authorized by the Admiral to make authorized by the Admiral to make the trip with us.

"The food situation was getting tough. Our breakfast was always hot cakes made without eggs—just flour, water, and baking powder-and the syrup was sugar and water. "The one high spot in our diet was the Canopus," said Kelly. "She was an old sub tender, so slow she'd been abandoned, but she had a fine machine shop. She was tied up at the dock and already had been hit twice by bombs, so they worked her at night and abandoned her by day. But among her stores were barrels and barrels of ice-cream mix and a freezer. And her skipper would let anyone in the navy who came aboard eat all the ice cream he wanted as long as those barrels last-ed—they held out until the week we

But here were all these brave people on Bataan and the Rock, Peggy among them, realizing more clearly every day that they would never get out. Doomed, but bracing themselves to look fate in the face as it drew nearer, knewing that they were expendable like ammunition, and that it was part of the war plan that they should sell themselves as dearly as possible before they were killed or explured by the Japs. IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL CUNDAY CHOOL Lesson By HABOLD L. LUNDQUIST. D. D. Chienga. (Releasing by Western Newspitzer Union.)

LESSON TEXT—II Poter 1:1.11.
GOLDEN TEXT—He hath granted unto us
His precises and exceeding great provises; that through these ye may become partners of the divine nature.—II Peter 1:4, R. V.

Growth in grace and in knowledge Growth in grace and in knowledge of Christ are as normal and expected of the child of God as bodily growth of the physical child. Tragic as is the failure of one to develop physically, it is even more distressing and sad in the spiritual realm. Yet it is a common thing in our churches, where only comparatively few believers even come to full few believers even come to full stature in Christ, where more have only a partial growth, and some are forever babes in Christ.

God has made perfect provision for us, and has in His Word given plain and explicit instructions on how to gain spiritual development. L All Things Provided (vv. 1-4).

I. All Things Provided (vv. 14).

In the physical world we are able to provide, at least in some degree, what is needed. We also know where to find mental food. Spiritual provision can come only from God, and we find from these verses that He has provided not just a small portion, or a limited ration, but "all things that pertain unto life and god-liness," through the knowledge of Christ. Christ.

The "exceeding great and precious promises" of God are the abundant portion of the believer. They are sure promises, based in the alto-gether dependable Word of God. God's provision for us in Christ has made it unnecessary to look elsewhere. Here is escape from the world's corruption, the new nature in Christ, faith, grace, peace, power —all in Him, The opposite is also true, that without Christ men have only the weak and disappointing help of men on which to draw. Of such foolish ones the Lord said through Jeremiah the prophet that they "have com-mitted two evils: They have for-saken me, the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water" (Jer. 2:13).

II. All Diligence Required (vv. 5-7).

There is something that the Christian can do to insure his growth in grace. He is to be diligent, that is, have an earnest purpose and zeal to go ahead spiritually. This calls for application and endeavor, just as progress in any other sphere of life, and possibly more.

Faith is the foundation of all such growth and without it there is nothing on which to build. But on it, or better, "in" it, we have all these other Christian graces springing up, as we give "all diligence" to en-courage their growth.

Notice the ascending scale. Faith leads to virtue, that is, courageous, resolute Christian character. Then comes knowledge—the intelligent understanding and discernment of truth. This is bound together by temperance, meaning self-control. Next is patience, that steady en-durance which keeps going in spite of trial or disappointment.

The sixth note in this octave of The sixth note in this octave of graces is godliness, which speaks of piety, true devotion to God, and reverence for His name. Such a believer will love his brethren in all brotherly kindness; and that leads us to the high point of love (the real meaning of "charity," v. 7). Here love for God is obviously in mind, as the crowning grace of the believer.

III. All Eternity Assured (no. 8)

gum, a candy bar maybe, from the ing to show for our life as followers of Christ here on earth (read I Cer. 3:12-15)

God does not want for His people such an unseemly entrance upon eternity. Why should we be satisfied so to live that it may be true of us. Saved? Yes, but that is all! Are you satisfied with that prospect?

We should note, too, that this growth in grace will show itself in our daily life. It will keep us from being "barren (idle) and unfruitul" (v. 8). The Christian life must not (v. 8). The Christian life must not be barren of true service for Christ, nor unfruitful of gracious harvest for Him. We are not on a sort of spiritual joy rids, sitting at case as we speed on to the heavenly dwelling Strawberry Jam . . . It's the Berries!

Get in the Jam!

Bright little berries pushing their noses out of the greenery surround-ing them makes you think of jam and jelly time, and rightfully so, for this is the time to start putting up those berries!

Strawberries are usually the first

Strawberries are usually the first to arrive on the canning scene, followed very shortly by the other berries like raspberries, cherries, and then the fruits. Don't wait until the berries you are canning are too ripe, for those do not make the best jams and jellies.

the best jams and jellies.

To insure success in jelly making, use a commercial pectin. There's no sugar to waste on jelly that doesn't jell, and no time to spend re-cook-ing juices that won't work for jelly or jam. The recipes I'm giving this year are for smaller quantities of jam and jelly for most of us do not have too much sugar to spare on canning. on canning.

AMERICA MAY NEVER HAVE A DICTATOR—BUT

WE'RE ASKING FOR IT!

Every true American shudders at any serious contemplation of the rule of a dictator in our country . . . but even a cursory study of the democracies which have waned and fallen will reveal that at the heart of their downfall was the failure of their peoples to realize the value of their democratic privileges, and the failure to exercise these privileges at every opportunity.

It is not a new statement that we here in America have failed miserably in respect to this quality of appreciation. That we have done so is reflected in our varied responses. Particularly has this been true in respect to voting. The American system of government is controlled, if at all, by the votes of qualified men and women. These men and women are the government of America in that they hold it within their power to elect or defeat any man who announces as a candidate for public office. And it is this process of selection and elimination by voting which has given us the right to call ourselves a free people; and it is one of the first rights of which people are deprived when the iron heel rule of dictatorship settles down upon a nation. Therefore, it is a great and important privilege to be able to vote. But what have we done about it?

For years the percentage figures of those who have voted in American elections has been discouraging when compared to the figure of those eligible to do so. But in this critical time in the life of our nation, all of our people, everywhere, should become aroused about our free principles. Whether we like to believe it or not, there are forces abroad in the world which are aimed at our destruction, and which, if they could, would deprive us of free way of life. Naturally, all of these insidious forces are depending for their success upon an America which is asleep and complacent.

Ranging all the way from apparently innocent recommendations to discontinue lodge and club meetings, the postponement of church and organization conventions, based on paltry excuse, to the more radical invitations for sedition, a steady assault is being made against the American way of life. They cannot succeed if we are alert and appreciative.

But as a case in point, one should look at the recent town elections in our county. The look should make us thoroughly ashamed: In Marlinton, with a population of around 1,600, and at a cost of $104.20, a total of 64 persons voted in the town election on June 1-36 at one voting place, 28 at the other. This followed an advertised mass meeting attended by about 7 or 8 persons which nominated an uncontested ticket. In Durbin, at an undetermined (by us) cost, a record for the county was set by the 87 persons who voted for the Citizens Ticket. At Hillsboro, with about 200 or so eligible, 20 persons voted, costing the town something more than $10.00. In Cass, with about 200 or so eligible, 19 persons (10 of them election officials) voted, at a cost to the town of $42.50.

And Pocahontas county is not alone here. This is but a concrete example of a nation-wide trend.

It's a dangerous trend. Staying away from the polls in this manner may broaden out into a fan-like circle which includes staying away from church, staying away from lodge, staying away from club, staying away from public meetings, until a subversive minority can control our political and social life in all of these respects.

Of course, outside of a scattering, this epistle will not cover much of America, but it is as much meant for other towns as for our own. Our first duty, however is to those whom we attempt to serve. And to all of the citizens of Pocahontas county: Let's arouse ourselves to an activity which will embrace the exercise of all of our demoncratic freedoms. It is possible we may may never have a dictator, but in laxity and complacensy we're asking for it!

Nature Notes—
A short time age a little ground squirred made its appearance in our yard. We treated it so well that in a few days it went away and came back—bringing abother. New in desperation, we're cracking hickory nuts which our friend Luster ory nuts which our friend Luster Shrader gave us, and putting them in a strawberry basket tacked to the fence. and we're joining in with the early morning song of the Papa Squirrel, which sounds very much like the old tune about "I'm Saving Up Coupons to Get One of Those".

I watched a mather song sparrow take good care of her young baby one day this week. On each visit home for meals I could find the little hirdie by listening for its chirps... hirdie by listening for its chirps... At noon it was in a fence corner. At evening it was on the limb of a liew birsh near the house, where it had weathered a heavy shower, and always nearby was the mother hird, who fed the little one at regular intervals. What has more energy than a mother hird? Countless trips to build a nest, a hatching pairse and then countless trips to feed the hungry mouths? I got a laugh out of the haby aparrow: When the wind would him the twig upon which wind would blow the twig upon which it was perched would away, and its effort to keep its balance as for all the world like those of a drunken man trying to walk in a moving street car . . .

We hereby prognosticate: That if there is anything to heredity in the bird world, the offspring of the robin "Annt Lula," as Mrs. Hill was favoritely known to her many friends, was a woman beloved by everyone, and was particularly noted for her ready wit which was equal to any situation.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fry. and was been in Salem, Va. Surviving are her husband, J. W. Hill, town recorder, and one sister, Mrs. Irby Hudson of the clast the whele thing's got me nervous out.

As Chinese forces had continued to press back the Jap invaders in the middle Yangtze valley, a report from Generalisaimo Chiang Kaishek's headquarters disclosed that the drive in Central Chins toward Chungking had cost the enemy more than 30,000 casualties in a two-week period The Tokyo radio admitted the re

Principal theater of Chinese gains was the Yangtze river in southern Hupeh province and northern Hunan. Here General Chiang's forces wiped out encircled enemy units and wiped out encircled enemy units and seized huge stocks of supplies and equipment, a communique said. As a first step in the recapture of strategic Ichang, the Chinese had regained possession of all points around Changyang, strongly held "doorway" to Ichang.

Nazis Try Air

The question, "Where is the German air force?" received at least a partial answer-when Mescow announced that 500 Nazi planes had raided the important Russian position of Kursk, 120 miles above Kharkov. The Soviet communique reported that 123 of the raiders had been shot down, as against a loss of 30 Red planes.

Terming the battle as one of the greatest sir actions of the war, the Russians disclosed that the effectiveness of their anti-aircraft defenses caused the Germans to jettison their bombs, thus missing military objectives but causing civilian casualties.

Meanwhile, a German report announced further Russian offensives in the Kuban valley of the Caucasus. The Nazis said that five Red tank brigades and soveral infantry divisions had launched a new drive northeast of Novoressisk, last remaining German stronghold in the Caucasus.

POSTWAR PLENTY: Food Parley Pledge

Collaboration of 44 United Nations countries in building a post-war world of plenty was pledged by delegates attending the United Nations food conference in Hot Springs,

Agreement of the delegates to promote the creation of this international agency was hailed as the conference's most significant accomplishment. Undersecretary of Agriculture Paul H. Appleby, vice chairman of the United States delegation declared the conference had been "highly successful."

Optimistic Americans Fail to Realize Enemy's Strength in Experienced Men, Naval Forces and Air Power.

"But, General..."

The other day I said that after a long and enlightening talk by a high army officer who was patiently and painfully trying to show us why, despite the recent victories of the Allies, we still had a formidable enemy to meet, a dangerous, deadly and undefeated enemy. Victory, of course, is certain (eventually) but serious reverses, setbacks and sacrifices are still before us, he had said. anid.

I believe my own exclamation, "but, general" is typical of some of those "buts" which have arisen in your minds,

America is the super-duper land of inventive genius, business genius, organizing genius, mass production, high standard of living, assembly line, giant industry, efficiency, wealth, central heating, apple pie and unlimited opportunity. True, we got our first real drubbing at Pearl Harbor but we came back; the British were licked at Singapore, too, Harbor but we came back; the Britlish were licked at Singapore, teo, but they won the battle of Britain.
Latterly, we collaborated in the amashing victory of Tunisia... the Russians beat 'em at Stallingrad, the Chinese have held 'em off for what seems a lifetime. Why, then . .?
The general leaked a little wears

The general looked a little weary but he went on politely—I can't quote all he said but will give you the parts the OWI says is "okeh." "The enemy has the biggest, most effective fighting force in history." Biggest? But America and Russia . . . and Australia?

Armed Strength

Figures (U. S. Army official): The enemy still has 17 million men under arms. The German soldiers and their satellites, some a little ragged, still total 17 million trained men. still total 17 million trained men. The Japs have at least three million in miform. These (the good and the bad) combine to make "the biggest most effective fighting mass ever assembled in history." Remember, the enemy has been years building this force, and the civilians in these milltaristic countries have sacrificed all the things necessary—things we wouldn't even think of rationing, including liberty and decency. cency.

In cold numbers, the enemy still outnumbers us in land forces.

And even today, after Midway, Guedalcanal, Attu, Tunisia, Stalingrad, and the bombings, the enemy is still well equipped, well trained, well co-ordinated, can operate under adverse conditions and in the face of terrific hardships which our troops are just now beginning to master.

That is a brief sum up of the enemy land forces from a military man's point of view.

As to the enemy naval forces.
The Germans have, though you may not have realized from recent news, a small but highly specialized navy still afloat, plus the sub!

The submarine is still the biggest Allied problem. Submarines are tough animals now. Our own are tough enough and these animals are the German specialty. Depth bombs have to go deep to do any more than break the glass in the shaving mirrors and instrument faces. Even in the last war, it took a lot of depth bombs to get one sub. Now the subs can crash dive, shiver and rise to fight back. . and fight back they can! They are mounted with guns, they can stand up to an escort ship, at least a corvette, and it takes a destroyer or a fast cruiser to catch them even when they stay The submarine is still the biggest Japan's vaunted Zeres which yet. Japan's vaunted Zeres which could outmaneuver us because of their lightness, it is true, exploded at one shot. They have been improved. Germany has improved a number of her models, too. She is helding back many for defense. The enemy army, as a whole, is better trained by experience than our men. But these of our men who better trained by experience than our men. But those of our men who have had equal training and experience are as good or better, man for man, although not yet perhaps, officer for officer. Remember, Germany and Japan hred an officer class. We trained a few professional officers, limited their prestige, resources and opportunity. The majority of our officers in wartime come from civilian life. They are good, when they get the training and the experience.

As to the fighting man. Well, we've stood up to Hitter's finhat in Africa at bayonet's length—we've beaten the crawling Jap at his own game, jungle fighting.

Long Range View

Long Range View

But still we have those odds which I (or rather the general) mentioned when we look at the long range vista. They are the things which the general brought up in answer to the "buts"—I'll name the "buts" in a second. The point is he showed me why it can't be done tornorrow—why we diviliage have to be material. why we civilians have to be patient. He showed me what we have to do before we get over that "ridge."

After tomorrow, we can consider: The enemy hasn't the initiative the Americana and British have. When things don't go seconding to plan, they are likely to "bust." We won't.

The enemy has had its best men in the army a long time—its replace-ments are not as good as ours will Much of the enemy-held territory has a hostile population which will work with the Allies against the enemy when we move in. Japan and Germany will fall on critical materials before we will— we can best them at their own game of "ersatz," too; witness synthetic

We can manufacture and build faster because we have more to do it with than they have. Our home front is farther away from the battle front—and it is more in sympathy with the government, despite political difficulties.

But remember the "buts."

War Stimulates Changes in Education

One of the many changes which One of the many changes which the war has stimulated is the change in education. Education is going to count more after the war. Many boys will come back partially trained in trades and professions which they can follow if they have the additional theoretical and prac-tical instruction necessary to arm tical instruction necessary them for the stiff competition which is expected.

As a result, college entrance examination requirements will be greatly altered for many of these men will lack the traditional prerequisites. Reform in this field is one of the 11 major objectives, discussed in a report of the commission on liberal education of the Association of American Colleges.

"If an educational program is to sociation of American Colleges.

"If an educational program is to be of genuine service to the men and women of the post-war world," the report of the college committee says, "it must perform two functions simultaneously. It must take them as they are and appeal to their immediate desires and special it takes a destroyer or a fast cruiser to catch them even when they stay on the surface where they can return fire. The small stuff (30 callber) bounces off their scales.

Japan's Navy

The surface ships which Germany has are not so much of a factor. But Japan's navy is still to be reckoned with. It is not destroyed but it has to be before we can achieve victory in the Pacific. Just taking islands wen't do the job—and see how long it took to take an island, first Goodalcanai; new (almost at this writing) Attu.

Alrfores: America now leads the world. But remember Germany was the first to build a supreme "infi-waffe" and thet, luftwaffe and the men who mads it are not all dead.

Can Be Made Into Two Meals

You're the elever homemaker who saves on chicken by using only half a chicken for roasting. You can have the stuffing, too, by mounding it under the chicken when you roast it in the pan to get all the wonderful flavor of the meat in it.

Most families are so reduced that few homemakers find it necessary to stew or roast a whole chicken for their meals. In-stead, it's much smarter to use one half of the chicken for stew-one half of the chicken for stewing, the other half for roasting, or perhaps in making numerous and delicious dishes using cut up chicken.

Chicken is a good source of protein and we can use it in place of meat dishes regularly. In addition it's a delicious food that combines well with many other types of food, and goes with most vegetables and fruits in the menu.

Consider, for example, many of the chicken salads which can be made up with fruits or vegetables, and for sandwich fillings. Then, too, you can serve chicken either warm or cold with many vegetables and fruits, as a good start on getting what you need of the seven basic food groups necessary to health.

You probably have your own way of stewing and roasting chicken, but instead of using one whole chicken for either of these methods, split it, use one half for stewing, the other for roasting.

Religion and life go together. To hold the tenets of Christian truth in one's head and not to have them move the heart is to deny the very faith one professes. Yet this is the danger which faces the believer—a temptation before which many have fallen. The result is that much of "what passes for Christianity in these days is very thin stuff, very remote from the original" (Shoemaker).

John was not content with such a weak limitation, and in his writings he set up the true standard of a forgiven and transformed life, living itself out in love and sacrificial service. If we have forgotten what God meant us to be in Christ, or are members of a church which has strayed from the true and living way, this lesson affords an opportunity for penitence and works meet thereunto.

II. Hated by the World and Loved by the Brethren (I John 3:13-18).

The world, that is, unregenerate mankind, hates a genuine Christian no matter how kind and loving he may be. Why? "Because the Christian believer gives the non-believer an uncomfortable sense of inferiority. The presence of high Christian ideals in marked contrast to his own selfish policies arouses his anger and resentment" (Douglass).

The presence of a clean, godly life in a community makes every sinner look that much blacker, and the world, the flesh, and the devil will do everything possible to break down and destroy such a testimony.

We, as Christians, should not be surprised that the world hates us. In fact, we should be troubled if it does not hate us, for if our Christianity really means anything, it is distasteful to a God-hating world. Beware if sinners find nothing in your life which distresses them and convicts them of sin. convicts them of sin.

In the midst of enmity the Christian is not afraid, for he is

III. Indwelt by God and Unafraid in the World (I John 4:15-17).

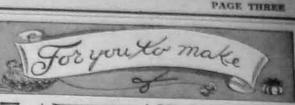

A sincere confession of Christ as A sincere contession of Christ as Saviour brings a man into that close relationship to God which is ex-pressed in the words, "God abideth in him, and he in God" (v. 15). The full depth of meaning of these words is obviously beyond our limwords is obviously beyond our limited understanding, but we accept the fact by faith and rejoice in it. We recognize that it means that we are brought by our faith in Christ, into the very center of God's love. Christ, the well-beloved Son, who stands in that blessed place, draws us into the circle and there we stand In Him.

God's love showed itself in the giv-ing of His Son as the Redeemer of the world. It was and is unselfish and sacrificial devotion to the eter-nal welfare of those who merited only judgment. We do not lave un-til we reflect that quality in our lives.

Such love casts out fear. Fellow-ship is imponsible in an atmosphere of loar, but love rules it out. In Christ we realize that God first loved us, and then sur hearts go out in wears direction to him.

New Deal Teapot Dome

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knor and his chief, President Roosevelt, set the Teapot Dome oil scandal boiling again when they signed over to the Standard Oil Company of California the exclusive rights for five years in the Navy's greatest oil reserves in Elk Hill, California.

This is the same oil reserve which the late Edward Doheny leased from the late Edward Doheny leased from Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall during the Harding administration. Fall served a prison term for taking a $100,000 "loan" from Doheny after the deal went through. There is no suspicion of such "graft" in this instance, but the welfare of the nation is affected just as much as it was by the Teapot Dome deal. Under the deal made by Knox, Stamdard Oil gets all the oil it can produce from the 43,000-acre reserve during the next five years. During Space will not permit a complete discussion of all the points set forth on the penny portal, but naturally we have a deep interest in the suggestion about a County-awned press. The card itself was addressed to the Journal as "The Free Press." If our feiends suggestion were accepted, the address line would need changing. A county-owned press would no longer be a free press. An editor elected by a voit of the people would not be a free editor. We said in the beginning that these ideas sounded "crack-pot." If we were an editor by election — and liked our job—we'd be afraid to say that anybody's ideas tion — and liked our job — we'd be alraid to say that anybody's ideas sounded "crack-pot."

On the contrary, the only reason why this editor is privileged to ex-press freely his own opinions, with-out equivocation or evasion, for ac-ceptance or refusal, is due to the fact that he is an independent owner of a business in which no person out-side of our own immediate family has a dollar, and against which no man holds claim for a dollar.

Paying for a dead horse is one kind

Paying for a dead horse is one kind of waste of money that nobody likes; but paying for a dead horse twice is semething much more incredible.

When the 1943 Legislature reduced appropriations for the department of public assistance, the new director, Homer W. Hanna, adopted the plan of setting up regional offices to take care of the work, because there wasn't money enough to maintain the old county departments.

Adoption of the plan necessarily released certain furniture and fix-

Adoption of the plan necessarily released certain furniture and fixture that the county departments have had. County courts naturally expected to get possession of that furniture since they had paid for it in the first place. Sales Tax Exceeds "Loss"

Collection of the gross sales tax for just 11 months of this fiscal year total $21,427,302.30. That is twice as much as was collected in the whole four years of the last Republican administration. THEY WERE PENDABL

THE STORY SO PAR! The story of their part is the battle for the Philippines is being still by finer of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpede Boad Squadron 3. They are Livut John Bullesbay (now Livutenant Commander), squadron compander; Livut, B. B. Kelly, exceed-th-command; and Emsigns Anthony Akers and George E. Oht. Jr. Durling a raid against the Japa, the PT boats captured a landing harpe and look gritconer a Jap captain and one of his men. But Squadron 3 had also suffered the loss of two of their crigibal six boats, and they were planting to sceape to China, when all of their kerpedose were gone, unless help arrived.

CHAPTER VIII

"When we went cut that night," said Bulkeley, "we didn't dream we were to take our final crack at the Japs off Bataan. I took two boats—Kelly in the 34, riding myself with Akers in the 35—to see if we couldn't bag one of the Jap destroyers which the army could see in Subic Bay. They'd been driven far back, but from the highest ridge of the Bataan mountains they could still look down into Subic with their 20-power binoculars.

taan mountains they could still look down into Suble with their 20-power hincculars.

"But the admiral had said we weren't to go into the bay. We must coax them outside. The Japs had the bay's rim lined with guns, and it would be suicide. We got outside of Suble about eleven o'clock. All according to plan, Kelly hid his 34 boat in a cove just outside the bay, while I went into the entrance and raised a little hellfred my machine guns so they could see the tracers, hoping a Jap destroyer would follow me out, whereupon Kelly was to come out of the cove and lam a couple of torpedoes into their engine room. It didn't work. The Japs had had all they wanted of us. But just as I was about to leave, I saw from the entrance the outline of a big shiptied to Olongapo dock."

"She was a big one," said Akers, "marke 15 000.

tied to Olongapo dock."

"She was a big one," said Akers, "maybe 10,000 tons. A tanker, we learned the next day. So we turned back, sneaked toward her—there was no fire on us yet—and cut loose two torpedoes. By the time they exploded, we had cleared the mouth of the bay. But from the mountains of Bataan the army watched her burn all night, and in the morning there she was, sunk at her dock."

"They were our last torocloss

"They were our last torpedoes fired in defense of Bataan," said Bulkeley. "Since December 7 we fired in defense of Bataan, said Bulkeley. "Since December 7 we had probably sunk a hundred times our own combined tennage in enemy warships. While we'd lost two of our six boats, neither had been hit by the enemy—both had gone aground in the dark.

aground in the dark.

"On the way back I realized that we had fired our last torpedoes, except those we would need to fill our tubes for the run to China. And we had just about enough gas to get us there, with hardle a barrel to spare. If we were ever to make the run, we must make it soon. And it was getting plain that we couldn't do much more for Bataan, which was on its last legs."

"I can tell you about the army."

"I can tell you about the army," said Cox. "I used to get bored at Sisiman Cove and take trips to the front—sometimes up into the outposts. There were a lot of men in uniform on Batsan, but the front-line fighting soldiers consisted, first, of about two thousand Americans, well seasoned and good fighters. Then, about twelve hundred Filipine Scouts—equally well trained and equally good. Lastly, they had in the fighting line about twenty-seven thousand Filipino trainces—young kids who had never worn a uniform until a few weeks before the war started.

Their officers were equally un-trained. Toward the end, it was grotesque. Tough, experienced American Regular Army privates would be giving orders to Filipino generals.

and the twelve handred Scouts were the only real fighting men on Batean, and they were run ragged-every time the Japa punched a hole in the line, these experienced troops in the line, these experienced troops would have to be thrown in to plug it for weeks, but this, it seemed, was the official presentation. He also congratulated the men on the fine work they had done, and handed each a package of cigarettes. It wasn't until that night that Bulkeley told me all this had been camouflage. For that morning the General had called him in and told him of the new plan.

China was out for us, all right. Because Washington had made MacArthur Commander in Chief for all the Pacific and ordered him to leave. A submarine had been suggested, but MacArthur had said Bulkeley was the only commanding officer he knew in whom he had complete confidence—he was sailing with Buck. But he'd wanted to make a trial run first, and so added the little ceremony to allay the suspicions of the men. Because we were leaving Bataan in absolute secrecy and very soon.

"Of course to us this means that the China trip—our last hope of seeing America and escaping death or a Japanese prison—was gone forever. Now the MTB's were like the rest here in the islands—the expendables who fight on without hope to the end. So far as we know, we would now finish up the war in the southern islands, when the Japs got around to mopping up the last American resistance there.

"The minute we knew we were to leave Bataan soon," continued Lieu-tepant Kelly after a pause, "we got to work on the four boats. We knew the trip would be tough, and the boats were old now. The engines had had double the number of hours' service without their customary thorough overhaul and returning, so they were making half their original speed.

"We planned to scrape the bottoms and overhaul their struts, but this was done for only three. My boat's turn was last, and meanwhile it was used for patrol.

"Overhauling these motors with-out any replacement parts was a terrible job. For instance. Any tank-town garage which overhauls a fit-ver back in the States always re-places the gaskets with new ones. Only we didn't have any. Or any sealing compound. So those old gas-kets had to be carefully removed, handled as gently as though they were precious lace, and laid back in place when the motors were rein place when the motors were reassembled.

"How much gas could we carry? "How much gas could we carry!
We experimented—put down planks on those N-inch plywood decks to strengthen them, and finally decided we could take a chartee on piling twenty of those fifty-gallen drums on each boat.

"Naturally the crews got curious about all these preparations. Since we know so much about what the Japaness were doing across the har, we assumed their means for she wanted to, be finding out about us were equally good. Anyway, Bulkeley and I had her why I wanted darkfuld that there is only one way of I singled toyself. keeping a valuable secret during a war don't tell it pearwolf.

Meanwhile we kept on the boats all that landing-gear equipment we had assembled for the China trip—so if any hint of it had leaked out to the crew, they would think it was still on.

on.
"Meanwhile MacArthur had told Bulkeley that Batsan would fall shortly, and Corregider would go soon after—if it didn't get help from soon after—it it don't get help from the States immediately. No help was being sent. Apparently it couldn't be gotten to us. Then the Japs could mop up the southern Philippines.

Japs could mop up the southern Philippines.

"It was a grim picture for us. But here was our last big job. MacArthur was the brains of the organization—the only general who could take that territory back. The whole allied defense depended on getting him to Australia.

"Bulkely was reporting to him every other day, but MacArthur refused to set a date for leaving—he wanted to stay as long as he could. At this time the boys on Butaan were back in their strongest positions—also their last-dutch defense line—and the Japs had had about all they wanted monkeying with this line, and were waiting for reinforcements. But when news came that their General when news came that their General Yamashita was on his way with many transports, bragging he would capture MacArthur within a month, our departure date was set for March 15.

March 15.

"But to keep the men occupied and also to keep our secret, we went right on with plans for developing our shore base at Sisiman Cove. We installed a good cook's galley, fixed up the mess hall, screened in everything, as though we hoped to live there for mouths.

"We even took all our clather off." We even took all our clothes off the boats and moved them into the nipa huts ashore.

On the fourth of March there "On the fourth of March there came a nice break for me. Peggy got me word that she had been transferred to Little Baguio hospital on Bataan, relieving one of the girls who had been working too long under fire, and I got the idea of inviting her down to our base for chow and to spend the evening. Dr. Nelson, who had been looking after my hand, was also on Little Baguio, and I invited him and his girl friend, too.

"You should have seen my ship perk up when I told them. The skipper was going to bring a girl aboard! They had the ship all spit and polish, ready for the big event. My cook, Reynalds, and the Filipino mess boy were tickled pink. They were going to show the army! "You see the week before I'd gone over to Little Baguio—I'd had only breakfast and arrived on foot late in the afternoon for my dressing, to spend the night and walk back. But they told me, regretfully of course, of a new ruling: rations were tightening—they were down to dried fish, plain rice, and one slice of breadso absolutely no visitors could get food at the hospital. So I went to bed supperless, get up, watched them eat breakfast—they said how sorry they were they couldn't offer me any—hiked back all those miles over the hills, and at nine o'clock, sitting at our own mess table, ate seventeen hot cakes as fast as Reynolds could turn them out of the pan.

"Now their one idea was to show "Now their one idea was to show hospitality Now their one idea was to show the army what real navy hospitality can be. It's true Peggy brought the coffee—we were out of that—but they rustled the rest. It started off with rustiled the rest. It started off with fruit cockiall, then a real pot roast of fresh meat with brown gravy, and in this a whole can of mushrooms, which they'd been hearding for some big occasion. Then rice and canned peas and beans, a delicious apple pie, and then coffee like only we can make in the navy. There was never such a dinner. Then we sat and talked, while the little waves lapped along the cove. "I told Peggy I wanted to see her again, and soon. She said they were

"I told Peggy I wanted to see her again, and ason. She said they were keeping her very busy, but she might get a night off on the fifteenth or before. There was no way I could call her, so she said she'd get to the signal-corps field telephone and ring me up about six o'clock on the eleventh, when we could make a definite date. "I asked her if she coulding.

The key role which Baruch's mobilization of national resources played in winning the last war, plus his respect and popularity among members of congress were cited by observers as reasons for his choice by Mr. Byrnes. The fact that the two will be working together was viewed as a harbinger of closer cooperation between the government's legislative and executive branches and more thorough-going efficiency in the home front effort.

As I rend that title, my mind shot back to a very few days before this writing, one of the days when your capital was tense over the coal strike from one end of Constitution avenue to the other, and on both sides of the Potomac. I say "Constitution" avenue instead of "Pennsylvania" (which you and I have come to feel is the main street of Washington) because this coal strike struck deep into a lot of offices and bureaus beside the White House at one end of this historic thoroughfare and the Capitol at the other.

Naturally, Harold Ickes, in his of-

Naturally, Harold Ickes, in his of-fices looking down the mall from that strange modernistic pile that is the new Interior building, was concerned. He was, at that mo-ment, responsible head of the soft coal mining industry and the local coal mining industry and the indus-try wasn't functioning. Naturally the members of the War

Labor board were concerned. The board's existence was threatened.

Two Worries

Over across the Potomac in that marvelous architectural achievement, the Pentagon building, where the army is housed, officers paced the floor of their pentagonal offices. They had two worries. One: Will there be a coal shortage that will hold up production of important war supplies? Two: Will we have to go out and push people around with bayonets?

bayonets?

I haven't mentioned what was going on at the Capitol or in the White House. Plenty. Every enemy of the administration, every friend of the administration who was angry at Lewis, everyone who was for 100 per cent prosecution of the war—and they weren't necessarily different people, but people with different ideas—was yelling for Lewis' eyebrows and some of them were threatening the President if he didn't bring them in (on a silver charger) for breakfast. for breakfast.

Inside the White House, there were meetings which, because of the presence and absence of certain persons, I would like to report in great-er detail but I can't—that will have to be left to history.

As I write these lines, I cannot predict the aftermath of the action which began late one afternoon on June 3 when, contrary te reports circulated earlier in the day, a statement was issued from the White House ordering the men back to the mines by June 7. But between these lines of that statement was the story of "Franklinstein" and the creature which he created, as dramatic, if not as tragic, as the horror tale by the gentle Mrs. Shelly, written early in the 19th century.

Self-Destroyer

A copy of that book ("Franken-stein") is on my table as I write. On the last page are the lines spoken by this strange being which the hero had created, hoping to raise the standard of humanity but which, alas, had found itself heir to the human weaknesses and turned against his creator. The "being," just before it destroys itself, speaks to its creator: to its creator:

"... thou didst seek my extinc-tion that I might not cause greater wretchedness; and if yet, in some mode unknown to me, thou hast not ceased to think and feel, thou wouldst not desire against me a vengeance greater than that which I feel. Blasted as thou wert, my agony was still superior to thine . ."

(You really ought to read the book—it's far superior to the movie version.)

But why do I bandy with this ancient tale? Because I do believe that all of us build, materially or physically, creatures which come back to haunt us.

Pick up the story in the rearing thirties—the New Deal is beginning to strut its stuff. The "forgotten man" has been remembered and he's grateful to Roosevelt.

The forgotten inborer is being re-membered; he's grateful to Lewis. I mean the man who couldn't because of the by-laws of the AFL, get into a labor union any more than he could get into the Union League club. Lewis stepped out of the AFL with his miners. The CIO was formed in 1935.

That gave the poor, heretofore outsider, the workman who couldn't qualify, to join the snooty AFL, a chance to be somebody. If there were more of this group than there were of the AFL's in a plant, shop or factory, his outfit was recognized as the collective bargaining unit.

The Siren's Song

But then Mr. Lewis made a great mistake. He went to Paris. Other men have erred in that once-fair city before this. (I visited it my-self.) But John met another siren . . he witnessed the sit-down strike.

Now, frankly, this is hearsay but I am told that it was Lewis brought that illegitimate Gailic child of the proletariat, conceived in a strange moment of aberration, back to America. It did not thrive. It needed a more rarified atmosphers than that which blows across the prairies and once flapped the cover of the covered wagon.

once flapped the cover of the covered wagon.

Mr. Lewis went to the White House, jerked the previously welcoming latchstring, and went in. But old man Vox Populi got there before him. Up to then, V. P. had been pretty satisfied with things as they were under the New Deal.

But things had changed.

But things had changed.

In a chilly voice V. P. said: "No, Franklin, no John. No dice."

Franklin listened. John got mad. That was the end of a beautiful friendship and the rest is history. Lewis turned against the man who had made his success possible and there is, as we know, no feud like the feud of former friends.

EARLY American wall pockets cut out of light weight pine or scraps of half inch material may have many modern uses. In the kitchen they are just the thing for ration books and a pad for the grocery list. Just inside the front door one will lend a decorative note and make a convenient place for driving gloves and keys.

Originally these pockets were made in a great variety of de-signs and were used for letter boxes. They are still useful for this purpose or for a leave-a-note pad and pencil. If you enjoy working with wood you may want to cut these pockets out by hand with

Chessie Writes a Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Marlinton Journal

Sir:

E NEW a railroad kitten gets around now and then. And I have lately heard some questions asked and comments made about our railroads that have inspired me to write you this letter.

I suppose it is perfectly natural that people who see the enormous load of traffic our railroads are moving in wartime - people who watch millions of tons of freight and thousands of men in arms go rolling by-should say: "I'll bet the roads are coining money these days."

It seems to me that the truth of this question is something every American ought to know.

Nearly everyone has read or heard that during the recent years of depression the railroads had extreme difficulty making ends meet. In the twelve years following 1929, thirty-seven Class I railroads sought relief from their troubles in bankruptcy. Others staggered along under heavy burdens of debt. And the average earnings of all Class I railroads, for that period, were only 2.2% on investment.

But what many people do not know is that even in 1942, the American railroads carned only a moderate return on investment.

Railroad traffic increased enormously, of course. But so did operating costs, so did raxes. And the average earnings, for all Class I railroads, in our first year of war, were only live and a half per cent.

Even the railroad kitten, Mr. Editor, can see that this is not a profiteer's wage.

It is almost the cause percentage as the cornings that were fixed by the governsome for the railroads during the last war. It is within what Congress declared in 1920 to be a fair earning on railroad value. And the Interstate Commerce Commission has repeatedly recognized the principle that a fair return should be gauged by the average earnings over a period; that the roads should be allowed to make up in good years for the lean.

Mine is a small voice. But this is a free country. And it gets my fur up to hear people undervalue our railroads

Those who do have only to look around them to see how tremendous a part in our national critis is being taken by care and conclus and engine and by the men who con them. For transport is the life-blood of our war effort.

We have reason to be thankful for the strength of our railroads. And equally good reason, with a view to the years ahead, to see that they continue to be strong and sound institutions.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the divenaval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Hoat Squadron 3. They are Ligett. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenami Commander), quadron commander, Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox, Jr. Manila had fallen and our naval base at Cavite had been wiped out, when the PT beats took their final erack at the Japs off Bataan. March Brit General MacArthur took a rids in one of the boats, and everyone knew romething was up, because the Philippines couldn't hold out much longer. Lieut. Kelly is speaking.

CHAPTER IX

"On March 10 Bulkeley made his usual trip to see MacArthur; this time he brought along all his plans and charts for the trip. The General and charts for the trip. The General went over and approved them, and also told Admiral Rockwell and his chief of staff that they were going along, which was the first they had known of the trip—they had thought we were going to China. There was also an ominous bit of news—some big Jap formation was reported coming down the west coast of Luzon in our direction. If it was true, it could only be the convoy bringing General Yamashita and his reinforcements. General MacArthur told forcements. General MacArthur told Bulkeley we might be leaving very soon, and to come back the next day.

"That would be the eleventh of March. Bulkeley went over early in the morning and returned to us at the other officers, Akers, Cox, and Schumacher, and for the first time showed them copies of our secret orders and the charts he had worked out for our route. He made the point that we should all keep together, but if one broke down, the rest would go on, leaving it to make its way the best it could."

"If we met the enemy, we were to avoid them if possible. But if they gave chase and were gaining to avoid them if possible. But if they gave chase and were gaining on us so that an attack was necessary, the 41 boat, in which he would carry the General, his wife, and his son, would turn and run, and my boat, since I was second in command, would lead the attack to give the others time to escape.

"The last thing he told us was that we were leaving that very night. He left us hard at work on last-minute preparations but would return soon to complete his own,

"We didn't tell the men what we were up to or where we were leav-ing Corregidor," continued Lieutenant Kelly, but they got their orders to dump that landing-force equip-ment, to load all spare parts on the boats, move the crew's mess gear back into the ship's galley, and pile the decks with drums of gas.

"And while we were doing it, who should walk in but Nat Floyd who should walk in but Nat Floyd of the New York Times, exactly the last guy in the world we wanted to see. Sure, we liked him. He said he'd been up to the lines with the army, and then on a hunch, no particular reason, thought he'd drop in on us and see if we had any news.

"Then Bulkeley and I went into a huddle. Here Nat was. And bound to get suspicious of the activity. After we'd gone, the story would be

After we'd gone, the story would be almost sure to get out.

"He's a prestly nice guy,' I said. Don't suppose we could take him with us, do you?"

"Well,' said Bulkeley. T've got to go along now. But if Nat should happen to stow away in the lazaret, and we duin't find him until we were out to sea, why then the story certainly sendin't get out, would it?"

"And do you know, that's just what happened. But in the meanine there were other things on my mind. Mostly it was how I was going to get hold of Peggy. There ing to get hold of Peggy. "Then there was a long allence, and when she spoke again I almost thought it was someone else, her voice was so changed. 'Where are you going?' she asked, very low. 'Can you tell me?'

"'Can you tell me if you're coming back?'

"'No,' I said. 'I can't tell you that.'

"Then I guess it's really good."

"Then I guess it's really goodby,' she said, and her voice sounded flat and a long way off. 'But it's been awfully nice, hasn't it?'

"Listen, Peggy, I've written you a letter—' only just then I heard the connection break. It seemed a couple of generals wanted to talk to each other. It was quite a while before I got it back again, and they told me she had waited fifteen minutes and had then gone. I've always hoped what the generals had to say to each other was important. "Of course we weren't engaged. I didn't have a picture of her. In fact, the only thing I had was a few lines she'd scribbled on a piece of paper a few weeks before. We'd been idly talking about how we hoped to get out of the islands and agreed, half in joke, that whichever of us yot out first would write the family of the other one of those reof us got out first would write the family of the other one of those re-assuring letters about how wonder-ful life was on Bataan and how well out by the plane which took Mac-Arthur, telling her what a swell girl her kid sister was.

"Kelly's 34 boat was right on time," said Bulkeley. "We in the 41 boat picked up our passengers at Corregidor and met him and the at Corregidor and met him and the other two boys at the turning light just outside the mine field at seven o'clock to the minute. We had twenty passengers in all in our four boats. With me in the 41 boat were General and Mrs. MacArthur, their little boy, and his nurse and a few generals. Kelly in the 34 boat had, to start with, Admiral Rockwell, two colonels, and an army aviation captain. When one of the other boats later broke down, Kelly picked up a few more generals.

That rank made no difference.

"Don't you think we're getting a little far apart?"
"We'll close in gradually,' I said.
And I tried to, but finally we were so far behind Bulkeley's flagship we couldn't see it with the naked eye.

"I sent a whispered message to the engine room, ordering them to disconnect the throttle, and to push the carburctors up with their hands as far as they would go. We now had on every possible cunce of pow-er, but the Admiral still wasn't sater, but the Aunitarian listled.

"Privately, I doubted that we were closing at all, but I only said, 'No use pushing her too hard, sir."

"But about five minutes later we really were closing. Bulkeley, noticing we were pretty far behind, had reduced his speed. But, with my throttle disconnected, I couldn't reduce mine, and it took me about a minute to get a message down there telling the engineers to take their hands off the carburetor levers and reconnect them with the controls on the bridge. During this minute we not only gained on Bulkeley's boat, but overtook it and went roaring madly past.

"In the darkness I could see the Admiral had squared around and was giving me a doubtful look. I could tell he thought he was riding with a madman, and I decided he would worry less if I told him the truth—that our maximum speed in this boat was something under forty knots. Any Japanese destroyer-could easily make this maximum of ours. as the Admiral very well cours, as the Admiral very well knew. But all he said was 'My God!' very softly to himself. "It happened that we were just passing an island. The Admiral glanced over.

'How far are we from shore,

Kelly?'
"'About four miles, sir.'

"'About four miles, sir.'
"Looks farther than that to me.
Take a bow-and-beam bearing.'
"'Aye, aye, sir,' I said. But of course I didn't have any instruments. So, making the 45-degree angle with two fingers, I sighted along them to a point ahead. When we came just abeam of this point, since we knew our own speed, it would give us roughly our distance from shore—very roughly. The Admiral noticed me sighting along my

"'My God!" said the Admiral, and this time he didn't say it so

"At four o'clock in the morning, my engines suddenly stopped," re-called Lieutenant Kelly. "I knew the strainers were clogged with wax and rust, and it would take half an hour rust, and it would take half an hour to clean them, which I explained to the Admiral, who was watch-ing the other three boats disappear over the horizon.

Christians need guidance, especially in their home and church relationships. The apostle John, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, wrote the two personal letters known to us as II and III John. They abound in sound spiritual, practical advice. Note that these two words advice. Note that these two words belong together, for what is truly spiritual cannot help but be tremendously practical and perfect for the direction of thought and life. In these letters five admirable les-sons are taught. Let us give heed to them. They are appropriate to our day I. Set an Example Before Your Children (II-John 4-6). HOUSEHOLD MEMOS ... by Lynn Chambers

Serve Perfect Little Cakes for Garden Party

Keep Cool!

Keep Cool!

Foods that don't cook the cook and leave a lot of K.P. after the party is over are two golden rules for summer entertaining. If you are baking anything, try baking in cool morning hours, and if there's a warm dish to be served, make it something that doesn't require more than 15 minutes of cooking.

If your table decorations and settings are cool appearing and the food carries this out further, then you will have done a lot toward making your guests comfortable. Refreshments may be simple, in fact, they should be, for then guests and hostess alike can enjoy themselves. Here's a lovely salad that's the last word in coolness and smoothness, thereby filling the order for perfect summer refreshment:

Orange Ring Salad.
(Serves 8)

1 tablespoon gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
1½ cups orange juice
Juice of one lemon
1 tablespoon chopped mint
½ cup sugar

Juice of one temon

1 tablespoon chopped mint

1/4 cup sugar

11/2 pounds white grapes, skinned and seeded

2 cups shredded lettuce

2 cups shredded lettuce
2 packages cream cheese
1 cup sour cream dressing Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add boiling water, lemon and orange juice, sugar and chopped mint. Stir until cool. Mash and form cheese into balls the size of large marbles. Pour a little of jelly into bottom of a mold and place balls at intervals while pouring on thickened jelly. Place in refrigerator and chill until firm. Unmold and fill center with grapes mixed and fill center with grapes mixed with lettuce and dressing. Surround mold with peeled orange sections. Serve with crackers. Sour Cream Dressing.

½ cup french dressing 1 teaspoon sugar

1 cup sour cream Mix ingredients well and chill thoroughly.

A lovely combination of citrus fruit juices are included in this salad guaranteed to keep you cool: Orange Ice Salad.

(Serves 6) 2 cups orange juice 14 cup lemon juice 14 grapefruit slice canned pincapple large orange

1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup water Grated rind of 1 small orange Cook sugar, water and grated rind together for 5 minutes after coming to a boil. Strain and cool. Add to to a boil. Strain and cool. Add to lemon and orange juice and freeze Pack into a ring mold. Freeze until firm, then unmold on leituce. In the center place a bowl filled with mayonnaise, and garnish around outer edge with sections of orange, grapefruit and pineapple.

TIPS ON STORING FOODS

With hot summer days just ahead, here are some "over the fems" tips about storing foods in your refrigerator that may prest helpful:

FRESH MEATS—Should be kept extra cold. Store just below freezer or in the freezer.

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Remove waste tops, wash, drain, and place in hydrator or covered par-leaving some moisture on leafy vegetables adds to their

ROTTLED AND CANNED GOODS—Wipe off and place on any convenient shelf. (Most of these do not need to be refricerated, however, unless it is to chill them before serving.)

BERRIES—Remove from bex and store in flat contained such as a pie pan to leave as much air space around each berry as possible. Cover, if possible, to prevent drying out.

LETTOVERS AND COOKED FOODS—Don't use large dishes then uncernary and cover them well (unless you have the "high humidity" type of refrigurator.) Some homocovives tell us they use transparent dishes or always make a point of atoring lettovers at the front of the refrigurator on they won't forgot to use them.

Army Maneuvers Planned For Pocahontas County

Army maneuvers, including battle exercises with live ammunition, will be held in the mountains of West Virginia in the near future, the War Department in Washington announced last week.

Most of the selected area is in the Mornogabela national forest, and army officers are negotiating now for rights of access on a small amount of private property nat included in the forest.

The maneuver area includes parts of Preston, Tucker, Grant, Randolph, Pendleton, We better, Pocahontas, Nicholas and Greenbrier counties.

The West Virginia maneuvers, under direction of the 13th Army Corps, will be the first held in this state since the start of the war. MEDITERRANEAN: Balkan Powder Keg

The summary closing and opening of the Turko-Syrian frontier within a 48-boar span by the Allied command had presaged new and important military moves, as the Mediherranean area from Italy to the Balkans had tensed for oncoming action.

Increasing evidence that the Axis' much vaunted Balkans bastion might be a powder keg instead came in the form of reports from Ankara that Rumania had sounded out the Allies on armistice terms. From An-lara, too, came steadily mounting proof of Turkey's closer friendship with the United Nations. The ap-pointment of Brig. Gen. Richard G. Tendell as American military at-tuche in Ankara and the dispatch of a contingent of Turkish fliers to America for special training were significant steps in this direction.

Reports from Axis sources had refacted increasing official bafflement over the Allies' next moves. After telling its listeners of "many landing craft concentrating from African coasts toward Pantelleris and the massing of a million troops for an bullan levesion," the Rome radio had broadcast a report that "large British forces were concentrating along the southern frontier of Tur-

The corn loan move was described as "only an immediate palliative, not the final answer to the problem," and it was stated that efforts to find a solution would continue.

The government's action came as the War Food administration and Commodity Credit corporation received a request from the Corn Industries Research foundation for elther complete lifting of federal price ceilings on grain or the imposition ther complete lifting of federal price ceilings on grain or the imposition of ceilings on hogs. Meanwhile J. B. Philosophy of Governments Set Forth in New Fantasy Antoine de Saint-Exupery's Delightful Fairy Story, "The Little Prince," Holds More Than Artistry for Adult and Child Alike.

By BAUKHAGE

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C.

On a June day, when a gentle breeze brought the scent of newmown grass in through the White House windows, President Roosevelt at at his desk and read slowly to a group of correspondents from a typewritten sheet. It wasn't a formal document but it was an historic one—its purpose was to remind the Italian people that the military campaign against them which had just scored another Allied victory, Pantelleria, was the result of the misconduct of their rulers.

The message has been variously interpreted since, but to me, it contained one significant point—the reminder of the coming birth of a new nation; the new Italy which will emerge when the chains of arrogance and brute aggression which bind her are broken. There has been much talk about post-war policing of the remade versits, it in gance and brute aggression which bind her are broken. There has been much talk about post-war policing of the re-made world; little thought of the philosophy which will underlie the forms which the reborn governments must follow. To me, such a philosophy is set forth in a work of pure fantasy. A hopeful note for nations and men is sounded in this delightful fairy tale by an author who found spiritual rebirth in the tragedy of the fall of his own nation.

I refer to Antoine de Saint-Ex-upery and his latest work, "The Lit-tle Prince."

Those who have read his "Night Flight," "Wind, Sand and Stars" and "Flight to Arras" are not surand "Flight to Arras" are not sur-prised that he could create a fairy tale as delicate as this. Reviewers have disagreed as to whether it is for children or for adults. I believe it is for both, like "Alice in Wonder-land." But the adult will find in "The Little Prince" something more than artistry and the children will sense that, too. I think. sense that, too, I think.

sense that, too, I think.

Saint-Exupery is a brilliant aviator who built up night flying for the French airlines in South America. He fought against the Germans-"Flight to Arras" is the remarkable book which tells of that experience. He is now back with the French army in Africa, scene of the opening of "The Little Prince."

The Prince's Story

"Six years ago," the author says, "Six years ago," the author says,
"I made a forced landing in the Sahara alone, a thousand miles from help, and faced the necessity of repairing my motor by myself within the number of days my drinking water would last. The first morning, I was awakened by a determined but gentle voice which said;
"If you please, draw me a sheep.""
So Exupery learned the story of what is really important in life.

So Exupery learned the story of how the Little Prince had found out what is really important in life.

The Little Prince is at once a delicate wisp of fancy, something so sheer that at moments he seems to float like a piece of thistledown before your imagination—again, he has all the reality of truth itself, he is eternal childhood, all that is gentle, and confiding and lovable, with the faint shadow of sorrow on his winsome face, he is the tug at your heartstrings that comes when youth looks at you in wide-eyed confidence, reaches up to take your hand—the same reminiscent tug when you look back and see the surprised and longing sorrow in the eyes of your own lost youth.

The Little Prince lived far away,

The Little Prince lived far away, it seems, on a tiny planet with three volcanoes so small that he cooked his breakfast on one of them. A flower came to his planet and the Little Prince loved her and cared for her but he couldn't understand her and so he left to try to find out why. He finally reached the earth, why. He finally reached the earth, and here the fox taught him.

The Little Prince had never seen a fox—"Come and play with me," he said, "I am so unhappy." "I cannot play with you," the fox said, "I am not tamed." The Little Prince did not understand. He told the fox that he was looking for friends and asked him what tame meant.

Philosophy of a Fox

"It is an act too often neglected," said the fex, "It means to establish ties. to me, you are still and lost least, can fight 1,000 years." Some 7,000,000 pounds of bombs in have no need of you. To you, I have no need of you. To you, I can suching more than a fex like a capitulaied.

hundred thousand other little fexes. But if you tame me, then we shall need each other. To me, you will be unique in the whole world. To you, I shall be unique in the whole world."

"I am beginning to understand," said the Little Prince, "there is a flower... I think she has turned me."

said the Little Prince, "there is a flower... I think she has tarned me."

"If you tame me," the fox went on, "it will be as if the sun came to shine on my life. I shall know the sound of a step that will be different from all others. Other steps send me hurrying back underneath the ground. Yours will call me like music out of my burrow. And then look: you see the grain fields down yonder. I do not eat bread. Wheat is of no use to me. The grain fields say nothing to me and that is sad. But you have hair that is the color of gold. Think how wonderful that will be when you have tamed me. The grain which is also golden will bring me back the thought of you. And I shall love to listen to the wind in the wheat ..."

The fox gared at the Little Prince for a long time. "Please—tame me," he said. "I want to very much," said the Little Prince, "but I haven't much time, I have friends to discover and a great many things to understand."

"One only understands the things one tames," said the fox, "men have

"One only understands the things one tames," said the fox, "men have no more time to understand anything. They buy things already made at the shops but there is no shop anywhere where one can buy friendship, and so men have no friends any more. If you want a friend, tame me . ." And so the Little Prince did, and

And so the Little Prince did, and another day when he came back, the fox said: "It would have been better if you had come back at the same hour. If, for example, you come at four o'clock in the afternoon, then at three o'clock I shall begin to be happy. I shall feel happier and happier as the hour advances. At four o'clock I shall already he happier as the hour advances. At four o'clock, I shall already be wor-rying and jumping about. I shall show you how happy I am. But if you come just anytime, I shall nev-er know at what hour my heart is to be ready to greet you." But finally, the Little Prince had to go.

"Ah," said the fox, "I shall cry."

Source of Comfort

"It is your own fault," said the Little Prince, "I never wished you any sort of harm; but you wanted me to tame you." "Yes, that is so," said the fox. "Then it has done you no good at all." "It has done me good," said the fox, "because of the color of the wheat fields."

And there I think peaks."

And there, I think, perhaps some of you may find comfort in the memories that come from the wheat fields, for the common and the beau-tiful things that remind you of someone from whom, perhaps this war has parted you.

has parted you.

That is only a flash I have given you of the story of "The Little Prince" which is not written for children only but for those who have the faith of little children and the understanding to see how tragedy the faith of little children and the understanding to see how tragedy can bring forth something which can light the long shadows which it leaves—out of the tragedy of his nation and the searchings of his own soul came this charming fantasy from the pen of the soldier-writer with the secret he learned from the Little Prince who learned it from the fox—

the fox—
"It is only with the heart that one can see rightly; what is essential is invisible to the eye."

Diary of a Broadcaster

A postcard signed by a fictitious name, dated the day Pantelleria fell, contained this statement:

"Italy so far has got the heat territory of the world: most of France; the richest prize of the war: Jugoslavia; the greatest strategical area in the world: Greece and her islands. Italy will dictate the peace, save the U.S.A. and get two-thirds of Africa, meanwhile Mussolini is Suprame everywhere. Italy got all and lost least, can fight 1,000 years."

GROUP SELFISHNESS AND AMERICA
IN THESE DAYS of intensive national war stress, groups of American people play the war game for what they or their group can get out of, the war effort, rather than for what they or their group can get out of, the war effort, rather than for what is best for the nation now and in the future. The dominating sin of all such groups is selfishness.

Recently I listened to a speaker talking on the subject of "The Labor Situation of Today." He was employed in his state to handle the farm labor problem and was naturally sympathetic with the farm interests, His audience was a group of just average Americans, including farmers, merchants, small industrialists and others who go to make up the population of a country community.

In summing up, he said that labor, community.

In summing up, he said that labor, as represented by labor leaders; farmers, as represented by leader leaders; farmers, as represented by leaders of farm organizations, and industry and the politicians were all attempting to take advantage of war conditions to further their own ends. Each group was more interested in securing a present advantage for themselves than in winning the war and the peace; that despite these conditions, we would win the war, but as a result of the group selfahness, we would lose a prized possession—the American system of free enterprise; that those interested in instituting in America a new economic system were utilizing the selfahness of these groups to further their desire for an economic change.

The speaker's conclusions were economic change.

The speaker's conclusions were quite correct. Group selfishness, making of political capital out of the exigencies of war, will overthrow our free enterprise system. There is happening just what Arthur Balfour, the great English statesman, told me on November 12, 1918, would happen if America should become involved in another world conflict, which he could see in the then "comparatively near future."

AND ITS CONTROL
WHEN WE HAVE more money than commodities money will buy, demand pushes the price skyward and decreases money values. That is inflation. The government is attempting to control this by limiting prices and taking money from people for taxes and for the purchase of war bonds. The real basis of it all is the increased money in the pockets of workers and the policy of the government has been to keep on increasing that by a continuous raise in wages, either as direct hourly pay or as overtime at time and one-half pay. There is a limit to the money water the dam will hold. The place to remedy the danger is at the source.

Canning's simpler today and much of the spoilage that occurred formerly can be prevented if the homemaker checks the causes of spoilage. There's a reason for every type of spoilage, and what's more important, every one of them can be prevented if she's careful.
First, it's not smart to use leftover produce that you wouldn't eat over produce that you wouldn't eat at the table. Select only prime fruit and vegetables in perfect condition. Best quality goes into commercial canning, and so it should for home canning, and so it should for home canning. Get out into the garden early in the morning to get vegetables and fruits and can immediately, or if you market, tie a bandana on your hair and go out early in the morning to get your produce while it's still fresh.

Cleanliness is another important factor. Remember that food spoils for other reasons than that the jar is not air-tight. More spoilage than you ever dreamed of can result from not washing the food properly and dis-when needed.

Canning day should be canning day only, not laundry day, general cleaning and baking day, too. It's better, too, not to be overly ambitious and try to do three bushels of tomatoes, all in one sweep, for you will do better with a small quantity, and feel less tired, even though it may take several days in which to finish. Processing Foods.

Processing Foods,
Fruits and vegetables need processing which means the application of heat to the product for a certain definite period of time. You just can't put fruit into jars, seal and store and expect them to stay in perfect condition.

Place prepared jars on the rack which must hold them at least ½ inch above bottom of the canner. The water bath should be filled with boiling water which comes at least an inch or two above the tops of the jars. Jars on the rack should not touch each other. Start counting processing time as soon as water around jars begins to bubble, and around jars begins to bubble, and keep it boiling during entire process-ing period. A PEOPLE IN DISTRESS

LESSON TEXT-Exodus 1:6:14; 2:22:25. GOLDEN TEXT-They crist, and their y came up unto God by reason of the untags.-Exodus 2:3.

Today is Independence Day. Yet much of the world is in bondage, and the rest of it in a struggle to pre-vent freedom from perishing from the earth.

Our lesson too is about a nation in bondage, but we learn from it that there is a way to be free. Even so we declare the way of personal liberty which is open and free.

The Lord Jesus Christ opened it at Calvary's tree and anyone who is still the bond slave of Satan may make this a great and glorious Independence Day by now declaring his faith in the Deliverer of our souls.

We begin today a series of lessons in the book of Execus which reveal the high and mighty hand of God working on behalf of His people.

The family of Jacob—or, as the Bible calls them, the children of Israel—prospered in Egypt particularly as long as Joseph and the rulers who remembered him were alive. But they soon learned one of life's bitter lessons, that—

I. Prosperity Is Not Always a Blessing (1:5-11).

Blessing (1:6-11).

The Hebrews were a peaceful, law-abiding people. They were God's chosen people, and as He blessed them they prospered, and thus innocently they brought upon themselves the hatred of the suspicious Egyptians.

tians.

Prosperity is never an unmixed blessing. We as a nation know that to be true. Not only does it lead to a certain softening of the sinews, but all too often it results in a weakening of the moral fiber, which makes man easy prey to the attack of the enemy of our souls.

Is it not strange, then, that we should—even in times of all-out warfare—be so eager to chase the dollar that we are willing to neglect our children, forget church, live unnatural lives, just that we may make more and more money?

The Egyptians had, humanly more and more money?

The Egyptians had, humanly speaking, reason to fear this great nation which was growing up in their midst. The new rulers did not know Joseph and had forgotten the spirit in which he had brought his family into the land. The leaders of the Egyptians therefore made plans which appealed to their brilliant leaders as politic and wise. But they reckoned without God, and the burdens and afflictions they placed on the Israelites only served to bring further blessing.

So Israel learned a lesson which

So Israel learned a lesson which our present sorry world can profit by, that-

II. Persecution Is Not Always a Burden (vv. 12-14),

The people of Israel did not appreciate it, but the bitterness of their bondage was a blessing in disguise. Note that—

1. It Kept Them Separate as a People. Affliction often serves to keep God's people separated from the world. It is doing so today. 2. It Disciplined Them and Pre-

2. It Disciplined Them and Prepared Them for the Hardships of Their Wilderness Journey. We too do well to remember that "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and that if we are properly "exercised" thereby, our sorrows may yield rich fruit in our lives.

3. It Threw Them Back and C. I.

fruit in our lives.

3. It Threw Them Back upon God. Many are the saints of God who have found that the fiery trial, the burden so hard to understand, or some affliction of their body, has caused them to bring their burden to the Lord. We have traveled far on the road of faith when we have reached the place where we learn that "man's extremity is God's opportunity."

They had only one place to

They had only one place to turn. They were hemmed in on every side, but, as ever, they found that the can close. They called on their God.

III. Prayer Always Brings Deliverance (2:23-25).

boes God really know when His people suffer? Does He really care? Yes, He does. "They cried," and "God heard" and "remembered." That's all we need to know. The groaning of His people had already stirred God's gracious and tender heart. But He waited to hear their cry before He answered. Such is the law of prayer. May we not forthe law of prayer. May we not for-get it. Far too often we turn to everyone and everything else, and finally, in desperation, to God. Why not turn to Him first?

Does Got hear and answer pray-er? Yes, but remember that real prayer is the cry of faith coming from the heart of an obedient child. God may answer other prayers, but He always answers such a prayer

His answer may not be in second with our opinion of what it should be, for the western is infinite. He Names instact than we what the an-same about he. Let us toust the Judge of all the earth to do right (Chin, 18:30).

Wild ducks are temporarily "grounded" in late summer of each year, usually in August. At this turn of the season the young have not yet learned to use their wings and, in molting, the mature birds have lost their propelling wing feathers.

Some years millions of ducks die during this period when nesting grounds suffer drouth and birds are stranded away from water. Beavers often come to the rescue... save thousands of ducks by damming up outlets to lakes or streams. streams.

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the hattle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left. of Motor Forpede theat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. For Botor Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander, squadron commander, left. F. B. Kelly, second-in-commandigated Engins anthony Akers and George f. Cox. Jr. March 11 Lieut. Bulkeley showed the squadron their series orders. They were to carry General MacArthur's party and some additional personnel to the southern Islants where they would be met by transport planes which would carry General MacArthur to his new headquarters. When Kelly arrived at the rendesyous the others were missing.

"I had an idea where they would be, and I explained. Bulkeley, I was sure, would take no chances with women and a child aboard. Of course he'd seen the Japanese sig-nal fire the night before. Planes might be out spotting us for de-stroyers, and as soon as dawn broke Bulkeley undoubtedly had made for the nearest of those other Cuyos— picking one from his chart (we'd never been here before) which was surrounded by reefs and water so shallow that no destroyer could ven-ture within gun range or even "I had an idea where they would shallow that no destroyer could venture within gun range or even within sight. There he would wait all day, if not until dusk, at least until he thought the danger of spotting planes was past, before coming to join us here.

"So at 8:37 we dropped a hook in the cove and I sent two men ashore with semaphore flags to climb the island's single five-hundred-foot hill and stand continuous watch—for the other three boats of course, but particularly for Japs.

"At 5:30, when we figured any spotting planes would have had to head back for home, I was about to pull our lookouts from the hill and was this boat, remember, which had been repaired after its explosion. The cook had been blown explosion. The cook had been blown into Sisiman Cove. During the night its struts started coming loose, so they could use only one or two of their three engines, and they, like us, had lost touch with the other boats in the night. But instead of falling far behind the flagship, they had somehow managed, in the darkness, in set out in front of it.

had somehow managed, in the dark-ness, to get out in front of it.

"In the first gray light of dawn, their stern lookout reported a strange ship—gaining on them. Looked like a Jap destroyer. Now an MTB in good condition can outrun any warship afloat. But the 32 boat was hobbling on two engines, so although he was running full throttle, its commander wasn't surprised that the strange craft kept gaining. In or-der to lighten his boat and pull away, he dumped six hundred gal-lons of gasoline in drums over the side, but still the enemy was closing on him. There seemed nothing to do now but fight before the destroyer opened with its 3-inch guns. They readled two torpedoes and turned dauntlessly for the attack, to discover just in time that the strange pursuing craft was the 41 bost—their own flagship with Gen-eral MacArthur aboard.

So here they were-loaded down the water line with seasick and puzzled generals. Just at this point there was a rising roar from sea-ward, and the 41 boat came around

"We'd lost sight of you a few hours before dawn," said Bulkeley, "when you stopped to clean your strainers. I went on ahead because I wanted to get as deep as possible into the Cuyo Islands before sun-sips.

"This was a rendezvous not only for our four MTB's, but also for General MacArthur's second means of escape—a submarine. It had all been carefully worked out, and the submarine would bob up in this cove tomorrow. Had we been attacked or broken down, the General could have left us here, and concluded the submarine would be to the submarine would be to the submarine would bob up in this cove tomorrow. "General MacArthur, Admiral Rockwell and Lieutenant Bulkeley talked about the night's plans—the advisability of continuing with us toylable or going by submarine." advisability of continuing with us tonight or going by submarine," went on Lieutenant Kelly. "The Admiral was for staying with us, but the General was undecided. The afternoon trip had been rough, and Bulkeley had warned the night would be rougher. Yet as we lay there in the cove, the sea seemed calm enough, and the sky gave no hint of bad weather. So on the assurance of the Admiral that it would be good weather, the General desurance of the Admiral that it would be good weather, the General decided they'd continue with us.

"Then, as Bulkeley had said, there was the problem of what to do with the 32 boat, which had dumped much of her gasoline. She did not have enough left to make the fast run with us to the island of Mindanao, where the General's party would get the plane for Australia. So Bulkeley gave her different orders. Her generals were to be transferred to my boat. She was to wait here in the rendezvous until tomorrow when the submarine arrived. row when the submarine arrived. eral had gone on to Mindanao and would go to Australia by plane, as planned. Having delivered this message, the 32 boat was to go to Hoilo on the island of Panay, only one hundred and twenty miles away. There she could get repairs and enough gas to bring her on down to Cagayan to join the rest of us in the other three boats, and we would finish the war together in the south-

"What went wrong with this plan, we don't know to this day. The boat's commander, Lieutenant Schu-macher, must have decided that it macher, must have decided that it wasn't in condition to follow these orders. Anyway, when the submarine arrived, he had it shell the $2 boat, so it would not fall into Japanese hands, and boarded the submarine, which dropped his crew off at Corregidor, and took him safe-

"If you've never been in the tropics, you don't realize how fast it gets dark—almost no twilight at all."

"I think it was the whitecaps that saved us," said Bulkeley. "The Japs didn't notice our wake, even though we were foaming away at full throttle.

"During the excitement, the General was lying down in the cabin with his eyes closed, but Mrs. MacArthur, who was with him, heard everything that went on and she didn't turn a hair. She took it like a lady—went right on rubbing the General's hands to keep up his circulation though she was spasick

General's hands to keep up his circulation, though she was seasick herself.

"I never went below, and all my men stayed at battle stations, so the people in the cabin took care of themselves—there was no one to wait on them. The General saw that I was supplied with cigars. They were pretty well provisioned. They'd brought from Corregidor, among other things, a few cases of Coca-Cola—the first I'd tasted in many weeks—and some of the tenderest weeks-and some of the tenderest ham I ever ate.

ham I ever ate.

"It got dark fast after sunset, a wind sprang up, and ahead we could see lightning flashes. But these didn't help us find the narrow passage into the Mindanao Sea. We were going in the dark entirely by dead reckoning. At midnight we figured we'd be off the strait—so we turned into the pitch-blackness, holdturned into the pitch-blackness, holding our breath, but still we didn't hit anything. I had no charts, I'd never been there before, I could see absolutely nothing, but since we didn't crash into a beach, we kept on going, and at last I knew we were through and safely into Mindanao Sea — our dead-reckoning navigation had been right."

"And there we really caught hell," said Kelly. "Big foaming waves fifteen or twenty feet high thundering over the cockpit, drenching everybody topside. Also, because of the speed, water, and wind, it got damned cold. Our binoculars were full of water and our eyes so continuously drenched with stinging salt that we couldn't see, in so continuously drenched with stinging salt that we couldn't see, in strange waters with islands all around us. We could see the outlines of the big ones—Negros and Mindanao—very dimly against the horizon through the storm. But there were dozens of small ones and probably hundreds of reefs.

"The sea was on our port bow, tending to drive us south. We expected to make a landfall forty miles dead ahead—a small island where we would turn—and let me tell you this was an unpleasant situation for a parimeter. ation for a navigator. The helms-man's eyes and ours were full of salt, you had to keep one hand in front of your eyes to avoid the slap-ping force of the water, and yet you needed both to hold on. The Adneeded both to hold on. The Admiral was pretty wrought up. T've sailed every type of ship in the navy except one of these MTB's,' he shouted at me above the wind, 'and this is the worst bridge I've ever been on. I wouldn't do duty on one of these for anything in the world—you can have them.'

"It was a real problem to keep astern lookout for the 41 boat so we wouldn't lose it. Three good waves in a row and we'd be out of sight, and in that weather we could pass within seventy-five yards and sight, and in that weather we could pass within seventy-five yards and never see each other. The 41 was now keeping about two hundred yards astern, hunting for the smoothest part of our wake, to keep the General's party comfortable. The General had said that if his boat slowed, we who were ahead should also slow, letting them set the pace. I know seasickness can be very un-I know seasickness can be very un-pleasant, but I wanted to get them safe in port by dawn, in case there safe in port by dawn, in case there were Jap planes about, so I kept pulling them on. LOW BACK PAIN

For many years cases for low back pain and sciation have been put in two classes (a) those due to infection—teeth, tonsils, gums, gall bladder and other organs and (b) those due to injury—lifting a heavy object, a misstep, swinging at an object (often a golf ball) and missing it, a fall, braking a car and other secidents. The injury usually causes a Dr. Barton rounding the joint between the last bone of the spine and the hip bone. This is called sacro-iliac sprain.

During the past three or four years we are learning that many of these causes called sacro-iliac sprain are really cases where the little cushions or disks between the bones of the spine have been broken through or ruptured by the same type of accident which causes the sacro-iliac sprain. It is only after the usual treatment—manipulation under an anesthetic and use of a brace—has failed to give relief that ruptured disk is suspected. Each spine bone is called a vertebra and the disk or cushion between them is an intervertebral disk.

Dr. W. E. Dandy in Annals of Surgery, Philadelphia, points out that rupture of the intervertebral disk accounts for an overwhelming percentage of the heretofore incurable and untreatable low back pains and sciaticas, miscalled sacro - iliac strains and arthritis of the spine.

Formerly iodized oil was injected into the spinal canal, but this does not always show the rupture even when present. Then as it was found that practically all (96 per cent) of ruptured disks were situated between the last and second to last spine bone in lower back, the iodized oil method is not absolutely necessary, particularly because it is known that a "concealed" disk occurs in 25 per cent of cases. Dr. Dandy has been able to make the diagnosis of ruptured disk 63 times just by examination without use of iodized oil.

Cases of ruptured intervertebral disks are now successfully treated by operation.

However, there is the other side of this matter; that is that many patients and some physicians also, may now make the mistake of thinking that most cases of low back pain and sciatics are due to runtured.

may now make the mistake of think-ing that most cases of low back pain and sciatica are due to ruptured disks. As a matter of fact, sacro-iliac strain occurs more often than does ruptured disk and manipula-tion, rest and use of a brace bring about a cure.

Watch for Early Diabetes Symptoms

There has come to me a copy of the Diabetic Digest, published quar-terly by the Philadelphia Metabolic terly by the Philadelphia Metabolic society. This magazine has spread information among physicians so that physicians would be on the lookout for early and unrecognized cases of diabetes. Thus the level of treatment of this disease has been raised in Philadelphia and vicinity.

The facts about diabetes in Philadelphia that have been forwarded to physicians might well be studied by everybody because diabetes strikes everybody because diabetes strikes many homes. Some of the informa-tion is not pleasant; "other informa-tion brought out by the study is most encouraging to diabetics and to doctors."

1. Two and five-tenths persons per day die and have diabetes mentioned

In their death certificate.

2. One person dies in diabetic acidosis (coma) almost every other

3. Almost twice as many persons died of diabetic acidosis (coma) as died with infections of various na-tures without acidosis.

4. One-half of the persons dying with diabetes did not know of their disease until their last illness.

5. More persons died with diabates of causes other than diabetes (but having diabetes) than died of disbetes alone.

It is the hope of the committee that other county societies through-out the state and the nation will take up this work and that diabetic indi-viduals will lead longer, more use-ful and happier lives because of these efforts.

these efforts.
Just how much can be accomplished by the new knowledge of the treatment of diabetes by diet and bissilin is shown by the fact that in 1848 everage age at death of the diabetic was about 44 years and in 1828 it was 28 years.

Blister Rust Crew Plays Dual Role

By RALPH W. WELCH. Stare Leader, Blister Rust Control

Marlingan, W. Va.

Blaces Runt Control crews of the D. S. Bureau of Entermology and Placet Quantum for are physing "double stokes" this summer. On the one hand they are giving protection to valuable stands of white price by destroying nearby current and guoseberry bushes, thus preventing the apread of the Blister East disease to the white pine. On the other hand apread of the Busher Kust disease to the white pine. On the other hand they are keeping up their share of the feed production program by at-tending regulpr farming duties on days when the weather is suitable

General orders have been honed from the Mariinton State Headquarters from time to time since early this spring, emphasizing that in spite of the vital importance of protecting white pine from Blister Rust, the planting and harvesting of a maxiplanting and harvesting of a maximum amount of farm crops is not to be slighted by Blister Rust employed. to be slighted by Blister Rust em-ployes. Therefore, employes are ex-cused on those days when farm work meeds attention and allowed to return to their job when farming is slack, or when wet weather makes farming impossible. On an average, the em-ployes have been spending from two to three days out of each week at farming and the romainder of the workable time at Blister Rust Con-trel Work. trol Work

Also, work is being done in Water and Droop Mountain State Parks, and on private lands in Poca-banna and Pendleton counties. The Conservation Commission of West Virginia makes an annual appropriation for conducting Blister Rust Con-trol work on state and private lands, and the U.S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine matches state funds on a dollar for dollar basis.

The importance of removing gooss berry and current bushes within 900 feet of white pint cannot be over-emphasized. In Seneca State Forest, where work was completed last year, a single gooseberry bush was respon-sible for the infection of no fewer than 65 white pine trees. Many of these trees were already dead and all would have died within the next few years if the disease had been allowed to run its course. "Women's Army Corps" Now-And Becomes Part Of Regular U. S. Army COLUMBUS, O., July 8 .- With the President's signing of the bill changing the Women's Army Auxillary Corps to the Women's Army Corps and making it an integral part of the Army of the United States, its members serving within the Fifth Service Command became full-fledg-Ohio, has announced.

Captain Helen Y. Hedekin, WAAC Staff Director and top-runking officer on duty with the Service Command Hendquarters, said, "Members of the Corps have been on duty in the Service Command for several months now and have replaced many soldiers for combat duty. They have taken the places of able-badied men at countless non-combutant jobs which women can do as well as men. Everywhere army commanders have been high in their praise of them."

"The jobs Waars do are important and necessary," she added, "and the more Wancs we have, the fewer men needed, as Wanes perform duties which would otherwise have to be done by men soldiers."
